THE HISTORY OF THE

1774

The History of the American Revolution, from the first settlement of the colonies to the present time, is a subject of great importance, and one which has attracted the attention of all who are interested in the progress of human civilization. The American Revolution was a great event in the history of the world, and it has been the subject of many books and pamphlets. The purpose of this book is to give a full and accurate account of the events which led to the American Revolution, and to show how the Revolution was carried out. The book is divided into two parts. The first part, which is the most important, gives a full account of the events which led to the American Revolution. The second part, which is less important, gives a full account of the events which followed the American Revolution. The book is written in a simple and plain style, and it is intended for the use of all who are interested in the history of the American Revolution.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS

U. CHICAGO PRESS

PREFACE.

The first volume of the Church and Cemetery Records of Hanover was published in 1895. The following comprising mainly the records and history of St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church of Hanover is issued as the second volume of the set. It was not expected that nine years would elapse between the publication of the two volumes, but as will be at once evident, the records were incomplete and the expectation that a systematic and diligent search might result at least in the recovery of some portion of them seemed to justify the delay. This expectation, however, has not been realized and apparently the prospect of success does not become more encouraging. Eventually, no doubt, as has often happened, the missing records will be discovered, possibly in a library, a book shop, or in a forgotten place in some old-time house in the neighborhood. At present nothing has been found prior to 1780 and from that time until 1835, intermissions, either entire or partial, occur.

The Hon. Jedediah Dwelley is engaged in preparing a History of Hanover. It is indeed fortunate that among the residents of the town there is one so exceptionally fitted for that work. None, it may be asserted, has had a more intimate knowledge of local happenings, or a more extensive acquaintance among the townspeople, or can bring to the task a more intelligent and sympathetic interest. The confidence and appreciation of his fellow-citizens have been expressed by calling him more frequently than any other from among their number to serve them in offices of trust and honor, and every trust that has been reposed in him has been faithfully administered, and every enterprise he has undertaken has been successfully accomplished. Respected and beloved by all, he is today the father of the town—its representative citizen—and the one above all others who should write its history. My sincere hope is that this volume and my previous modest efforts may be of some slight assistance to him in his work.

This volume contains the records only of St. Andrew's Parish. The Church has always filled a prominent place in the religious life of the communities in which it was located. It is not known what became of the first edifice, but a portion of that which stood on "Church Hill," Norwell, was used in the construction of the present house and a portion in the construction of what is now the residence of the family of James T. Tolman at the corner of Oakland Avenue and Broadway, Hanover, part of the pews being used for paneling and wainscoting the rooms.

"Church Hill" was without a house of worship after the removal of St. Andrew's until late in 1829 when Mrs. Mary Stetson, a member of the Bromfield Street Church, removed from Boston to South Scituate, occupying the house which was later the residence of Mrs. John Knapp. There services were held, "Mother Stetson," as she was affectionately called, taking up the carpets of the lower floor and converting her house into a Sanctuary. The earliest records of the Society are dated May 12, 1849. The minister was Reverend E. H. Hatfield and there was a membership of thirty, with a Sunday School class of eleven scholars.

The "Old School House on the Plains" had been bought and fitted up for a meeting house and called Union Hall. It is the same building now used by Mr. Melvin Little as his store and was moved to its present location by James Knapp, who for a time used it also for that purpose. In 1851, mainly through the efforts of Captain Talbot, the present Methodist Episcopal Church at South Scituate, now Norwell, was built.

The character and ability of the rectors can be regarded with pride and satisfaction by the friends and members of the Parish. All of them were men whose reputation extended beyond their immediate charges and some of them became prominent and influential in wider and more extended fields. Few country parishes have been so favored and fortunate in this respect. Of those regularly settled, the Reverend Addington Davenport and the Reverend Samuel Parker became rectors of Trinity Church, Boston. The former was the first rector of Trinity, and the latter was afterward elected Bishop of Massachusetts. Of those who, though not regularly settled, officiated for a considerable time during vacancies in the rectorship, the Reverend Benjamin Bosworth Smith, after attaining distinction as minister, editor and author, became the first Bishop of Kentucky and was long President of the House of Bishops; the Reverend Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright after serving as rector of Trinity Church, Boston, and of churches in New York City, became Provisional Bishop of New York. He was for many years Secretary of the House of Bishops, and was widely known as an author and orator and was influential in many circles apart from his profession. Sketches of these eminent clergymen appear at the close of the last chapter.

The continued serious illness of the Reverend Mr. Harraden, the present rector, is a source of sorrow to his friends and parishioners and their hope is that with health and strength renewed and restored, he may long be permitted to continue his labor of love and mercy in the parish he has so faithfully served for more than fifteen years.

During his pastorate a new parish house has been built and lately a new clock for the church has been presented to the parish by Mrs. Edmund Q. Sylvester. Her sons Edmund Q. Sylvester and Joseph S. Sylvester, by their interest and efforts have done much to keep the society together and up to its present standard.

On the Parish rolls, too, have been distinguished names, pre-eminent among them that of Daniel Webster. Born in New Hampshire, January 18, 1782, he removed in June, 1816, to Mt. Vernon Street, Boston. In September 1825, at the suggestion of Mr. Samuel K. Williams he drove to the summer resort at Marshfield kept by Captain John Thomas. He came in a chaise, with his trunk strapped to the axle, accompanied by his wife Grace, daughter of Reverend Elijah Fletcher of Hopkinton, N. H., and his son Fletcher, then about twelve years of age riding behind on a pony. While here and enjoying the opportunities which the place afforded to indulge in hunting and fishing, he formed an attachment for Nathaniel Ray the son of Captain Thomas which remained unbroken until Ray's death in 1841. During his illness Mr. Webster was at his bedside day and night until the end came.

Mr. Webster continued to visit Marshfield each year, and in 1831 bought the Thomas homestead. Two years before, having been a widower for two years, he married Caroline the daughter of Jacob LeRoy of New York.

The Hon. William T. Davis, from whose writings the above facts have been taken, says that among his neighbors at Marshfield he was regarded as a true, simple, transparent, tender-hearted man, their counsellor and friend, that he was a man of deep religious feeling, and was as familiar with the Bible as with the Constitution of the United States; that on Sunday morning he would gather his household for Scripture reading and an address on the duties of life.

And Mr. Davis further writes that he said that the view from the chamber which he occupied at his Marshfield home was the most beautiful he had ever seen, and that there at half-past three on a summer morning, he might have been seen sitting in an arm-chair by the window, waiting for what he considered the most impressive spectacle of life — the break of day. He wondered that so many persons in the world should neglect the opportunity of witnessing that daily but sublime exhibition.

In Salisbury, N. H., he joined the orthodox Congregational Church. In Boston, in 1816, he was attending the Brattle Street Church, but in 1819 became one of the founders of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and occupied pew No. 25. On May 8, 1852, while driving from Marshfield to Plymouth the linchpin of his carriage broke and he was thrown on his head and shoulder. Drs. J. Mason Warren and John Jeffries were in attendance, and though he partially recovered, he never regained his usual strength and spirit, and died Oct. 24, 1852. The autopsy disclosed internal hemorrhage, it also showed that his brain was thirty per cent. above the average and was only exceeded in weight by two, those of Cuvier and Dupuytren, the largest on record. Mr. Davis also says his belief in Christ as mediator and intercessor was shown by the prayer uttered by him in his last hours, "Heavenly Father, forgive my sins and receive me to thyself through Christ Jesus."

That the most extraordinary figure among all the many brilliant men of his day was a frequent worshipper within the walls of St. Andrew's is a fact in the Church history that is well-deserving of commemoration and preservation.

The use of the church has often been granted for lectures and for meetings in the interest of movements for the promotion of the moral welfare of the community.

Lucius Manlius Sargent, scholar, philanthropist, and author of "Three Temperance Tales" has lectured there on Temperance, and it is believed, too, that John B. Gough who was at the Centre Hanover Church also spoke at St. Andrew's.

The late Reverend David Barnes Ford of Hanover in a communication to a local paper some years ago gave his recollections of what he called "a large all-day gathering in the cause of education" held in the church in September 1838, at which Daniel Webster, John Quincy Adams, Horace Mann, and Robert Rantoul were present and made addresses. Mr. Ford wrote that the closing part of the address of Mr. Adams was delivered with great animation and that it had always remained in his memory and was in substance as follows:

"There was one usage in the ancient Republic of Sparta which now occurred to him and which filled his mind with this pleasing idea that these endeavors of ours for the fit education of all our children would be the means of raising up a generation around us superior to ourselves. The usage was this—the inhabitants of the city on a certain day collected together and marched in procession, dividing themselves into three companies, the old, the middle aged, and the young. When assembled for the sports and exercises a dramatic scene was introduced and the three parties each had a speaker, and Plutarch gives the form of phraseology used in the several addresses on the occasion. The old men speak first and addressing those beneath them in age say

We have been in days of old
Wise, generous, brave and bold.

Then come the middle-aged and casting a triumphant look at their seniors, say to them

That which in days of yore ye were
We at the present moment are.

Last march forth the children and looking bravely on both companies who had spoken, they shout forth thus:

Hereafter at our country's call
We promise to surpass you all."

The material contained in the closing chapter was not obtained until the first chapters had been printed and was considered of sufficient importance to warrant its insertion in that place in order that it might appear as part of the church history.

Necessarily a considerable portion of a work of this nature consists of extracts and compilations from previous writers, for there is little opportunity for original research, and of such assistance the author has availed himself freely, and to those writers, of whom mention is made in the text, he desires to make grateful acknowledgment of his indebtedness.

The arrangement of the data has been entrusted to others. To preserve and present the records has been my main purpose and I regret that the demands upon my time have prevented me giving but a meagre outline of what is an interesting history; for in addition to the duties of an exacting profession, there have been frequent calls for diversified service by reason of my interest and membership in the following enterprises and societies:

Member of the Staff of the Boston Dispensary.

The American Medical Association.

Massachusetts Medical Society.

Boston Medical Library Association.

President of the Alpha Kappa Kappa Society of the Dartmouth Medical College.

Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests.

Sequit Club, Wianno, Mass.

Pilgrim Royal Arch Chapter of Masons, Abington, Mass.

New England Sportsmen's Association.

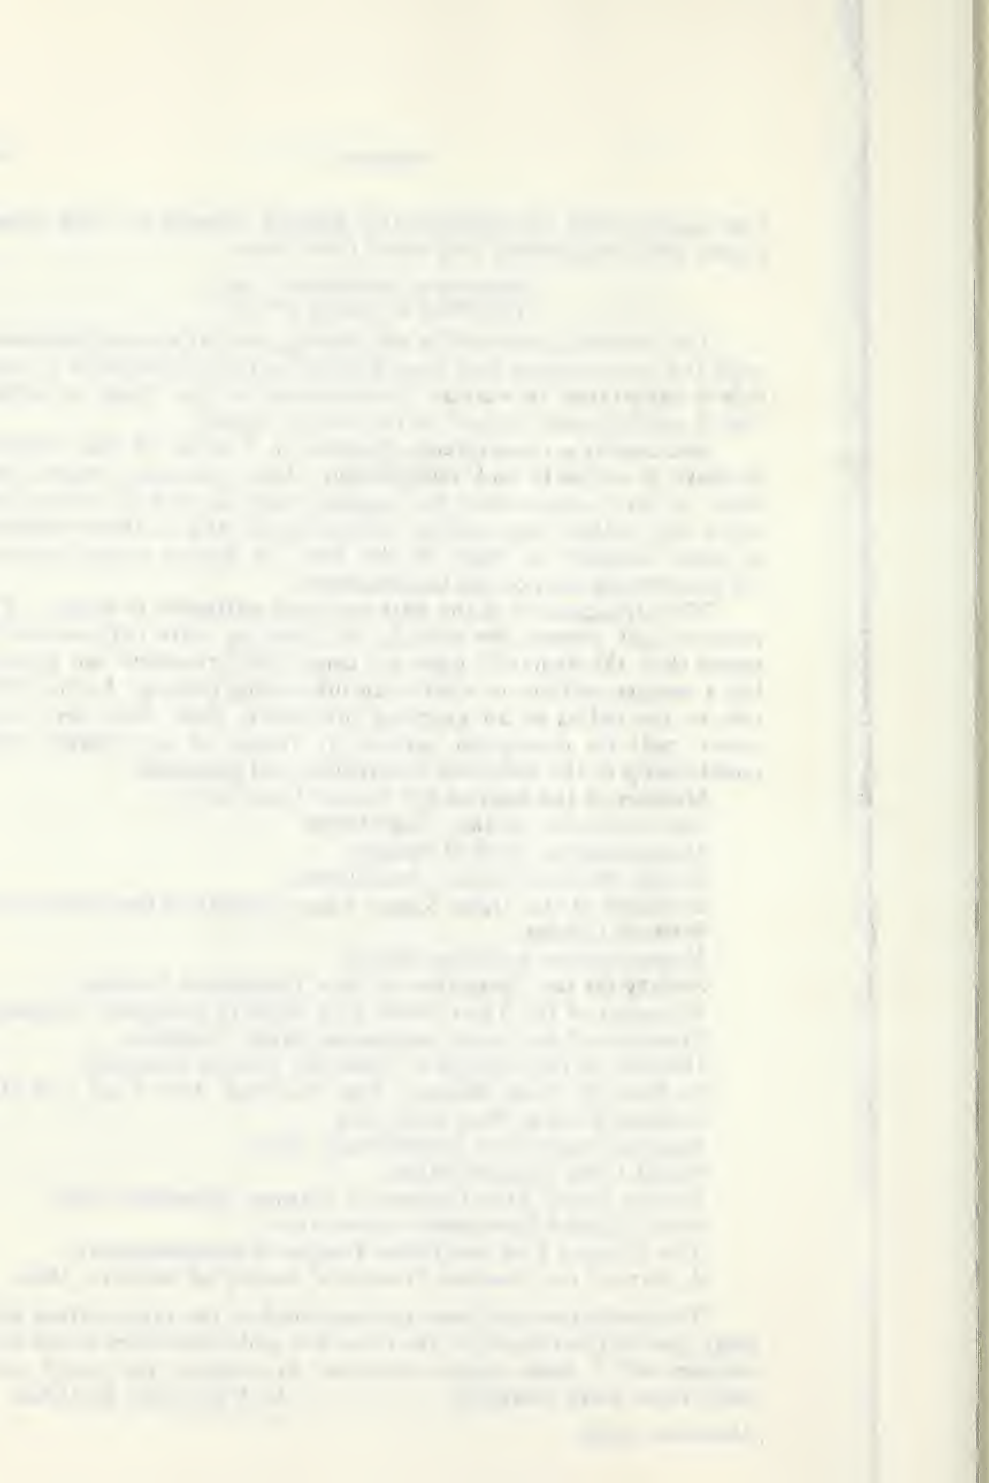

The Citizens Law and Order League of Massachusetts.

A Mate of the Nautical Historical Society of Scituate, Mass.

The result that has been accomplished in the preservation of a large part of the records of the Churches and Cemeteries in the two volumes will, I hope, inspire some one to continue the search and make them more complete.

HISTORY OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, SCITUATE AND HANOVER, MASS.

CHAPTER I.

FORMATION OF THE CHURCH: EXTRACT FROM MEMORIAL ADDRESS
OF REV. W. H. BROOKS, S.T.D., AND THE CHURCH HISTORY AS CONTAINED IN THE FOUR VOLUMES OF THE PARISH RECORD.

ON Sunday afternoon, September 3, 1882, at the site of the church edifice opened for divine worship October 11, 1731, an historical address was delivered by the Reverend William Henry Brooks, S.T.D., at a service memorial of St. Andrew's Church, Scituate, which in 1811 became St. Andrew's of Hanover. The address was, by request, published, and extracts following in the order in which they appear in the original text form the material for the opening portion of this chapter and afford the reader a history of the foundation and development of the Church more complete and interesting than any which can now be presented in other terms or by another writer.

On Wednesday, July 28, 1725, the Rev. Dr. Timothy Cutler, Rector of Christ Church, Boston, at the request of several of the inhabitants of the town of Scituate, conducted divine service according to the liturgy of the Church of England and preached in the North Meeting House in Scituate, near the harbor: the house standing almost opposite the place where the Hon. George Lunt, the thorough scholar and true poet, lately resided.

Dr. Cutler was ordained and installed pastor of the Congregational Church in Stratford, Conn., on the 11th of January, 1710.

He had a very high reputation as a preacher and was regarded as one of the most influential clergymen in the Colony. In 1719 he became Rector of Yale College.

In November, 1722, he sailed from Boston to England, and in March, 1723, was ordained both deacon and priest by the Right Rev. Dr. Thomas Greene, Bishop of Norwich.

The University at Oxford and that at Cambridge both honored him with the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

In November, 1723, returning to Boston, he began his labors as a missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, in Christ Church, which had just been established in that city.

About the year 1756 his labors were interrupted by an attack of illness from which he never recovered.

"After he had served his own generation by the will of God" in August, 1765, at the age of eighty two years, "he fell on sleep and was laid unto his fathers."

The Rev. Ebenezer Miller, S. T. D., who as missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts for Braintree, entered upon his ministry over that church (now Christ Church, Quincy) Dec. 25, 1727, at times conducted public worship for the people of the Church of England in Scituate in a private house, where he had as large a congregation as the house could well contain.

These people erected a church edifice on this spot, known as "Church Hill," now within the borders of the town of South Scituate (set off in 1849 from the town of Scituate), about a mile from the location, in the town of Hanover, of the present church edifice (the second) of St. Andrew's parish.

It was placed conveniently for the accommodation of the churchmen within several of the neighboring towns as well as for that of those in Scituate. The church was first opened upon the 11th of October, 1731, when Dr. Miller conducted the services and baptized eight children, thus receiving them into the congregation of Christ's flock. There were such numbers of people present that some could not get into the Church.

The building was of wood, churchly in style, had a bell-tower and a bell, and would accommodate about one hundred and fifty persons.

In 1699 the town of Scituate ordered a piece of land to be appropriated for a common, "surrounded with ways," etc. This was on the south side of the hill where St. Andrew's Church was erected.

In 1725 ten acres more were ordered to be laid out for a burying-place and a training-field. This was an enlargement of the same common.

On the 30th of the November following (1731), being the Feast of St. Andrew the Apostle (the patron saint of the parish), Dr. Miller officiated here again.

Although the weather was very cold and the church very open (not being finished), the building was almost full; and the people present who before were unacquainted with the service of the church, seemed to be much interested in and pleased with it.

Dr. Miller offered, in case the Honorable Society should not think it best to send a missionary to Scituate, to continue with all readiness to serve the people here, as far as he could. He was the first rector of Christ Church, Braintree (now Quincy) and, after faithful and useful service as pastor of the flock in that place for more than thirty five years, died September 11, 1763, at the age of sixty years.

He was received into holy orders as deacon at London, June 29, 1726, and ordained as priest by the Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Dr. Edmund Gibson, July 9, 1727.

In 1747 he was honored by the University of Oxford with the degree of doctor of divinity.

The church in Scituate having petitioned the Honorable Society to send, as missionary there, Mr. Addington Davenport, who had just gone to England for holy orders, the petition was granted ; and he became the first resident minister of the parish. His stipend from the society was sixty pounds per annum.

He received from the society a grant of books for libraries, and of devotional books for distribution among the poorer members of his mission.

November 10, 1735, he states that his services on the first and second Sundays after entering upon his work in Scituate were attended by large congregations, but that the other religious teachers thereabouts persuaded many who had attended upon these services that the Church of England could not prevail without the destruction of their civil as well as that of their religious liberty ; so that, upon the first administration there by him of the Holy Communion there were but three recipients.

The Church people were compelled by law to pay public taxes for the support of non-Episcopal worship, or to suffer imprisonment, as did two of the church-wardens, who, for not paying their rate towards the Congregational Meeting-House at Hanover (one of the towns in the Scituate Mission) were put in prison.

One of the church-wardens on his way to prison for non-payment of this tax was delivered by the constable's violent wresting of his money from him. One of the communicants, for not paying his rate towards the support of the non-Episcopal minister in Marshfield (a neighboring town) was brought in sight of the jail, but escaped it by the humanity of a gentleman who laid down the money for him.

It was owing to this hard and unjust tax upon the church people that the church-edifice in 1735 remained unfinished, and that then it could not be said when it should be completed, unless an end were put to this oppression, which was the great impediment to the growth of the mission.

In 1735 Mr. Davenport stated that he had baptized fourteen persons, that the number of communicants was twenty eight (eighteen men and ten women) and that the congregation numbered about seventy or eighty, most of whom belonged to Scituate and Hanover: the others being scattered through the neighboring towns of Pembroke, Marshfield, Halifax and Bridgewater, at the last of which places he had preached twice to a considerable congregation.

That Mr. Davenport, after his removal to Boston, had the people of his first charge in his mind and heart, is pleasingly indicated by the fact that he gave to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, in trust for the use, forever, of the ministers of St. Andrew's Church, Scituate, seven acres of land, with dwelling house, barn and other buildings thereon; in the instrument of conveyance, adverting to his having been the first resident minister of the parish.

The frame of this dwelling house was blown down early in the present (nineteenth) century; and the other structures disappeared very long since. This glebe-land is that whose apex is at the junction of River and Common Streets.

"The village preacher's modest mansion" stood near this apex, on one side of which now stands the dwelling house erected by Mr. Samuel O. Stetson, and on the other that by Mr. Thomas Waterman.

The annual income derived from the glebe-land alone amounted to about twenty five dollars.

The General Court of the Commonwealth, by a special act passed Dec. 14, 1816, authorized the sale at public auction of the glebe-land. On the 8th of February, 1817, a part of the land (five acres and sixty three rods) was sold to Benjamin Palmer for $302.05; and the remainder (one acre and seventeen rods) was sold to Elisha Tolman for $161.52, — in all, with interest, $466.69. The proceeds were invested in stock of the State Bank, Boston; the income, in accordance with the design of the donor, to be for the support of the ministers of the parish in perpetuity. This investment was added to a "Fund" established in 1815 "for the Support of Religious Worship in the Episcopal Society of St. Andrew, in Hanover."

To this Fund was also added the sum of $183.82 derived from the sale of the first church-edifice, and other sources.

The stock of this "Fund" was sold: the proceeds of which sale, together with cash on hand, amounted to $1274.20, and were invested, together with additional gifts of $1315.70, in the purchase of land, and the erection thereon of a rectory, the total cost of which was $2589.90. The rectory was first occupied July 13, 1849.

The thoughtful gift of Mr. Davenport to this parish, in its early days of scanty numbers and means, was the nucleus around which, a hundred years later, an amount gathered sufficient to erect a suitable dwelling house for the use of his successors here in the sacred office which he magnified and adorned.

Mr. Davenport was the son of the Hon. Addington Davenport, of Boston, and was born May 16, 1701. He was educated for the law; and representing one of the oldest and most honored families in the Province, a brilliant future opened before him at his entrance upon his profession. In 1728 and 1732 he was chosen attorney-general, but it seems doubtful whether he ever entered upon the discharge of the duties of his office. Having satisfied himself that "it was a certain fact that Episcopacy, in the appropriated sense, was the form of government in the Church from the time of the Apostles, and down along through all successive ages" he conformed to the Church of England, and, turning his thoughts toward the ministry of that Church, went to England for Episcopal ordination.

April 15, 1737, he became the assistant minister of the King's Chapel, Boston, (the first Episcopal Church in that city) and May 8, 1740, became the first rector of Trinity Church (the third Episcopal Church in the same City), and died Sept. 8, 1746.

March 12, 1732, he was honored by the University of Oxford with the degree of M. A.

Dec. 23, 1729, he married Jane, daughter of Grove Hurst, of Boston. She died before 1738.

The second resident minister of the parish was the Rev. Charles Brockwell, a Missionary of the Venerable Society. The date of his entrance upon his duties here is not known.

From the communications made by both Mr. Brockwell and the mission in Scituate to the Secretary of the Venerable Society, it appears that their mutual relations were exceedingly inharmonious and unpleasant.

He left here about September, 1737, and went to Salem Mass., where he ministered most acceptably and usefully to a large congregation. Subsequently he became assistant minister of the King's Chapel, Boston.

The Rev. Ebenezer Thompson was the third missionary for Scituate, appointed by the Honorable Society, and received from the society a stipend of forty pounds per annum.

In 1763 he stated, that in Scituate, Hanover, Marshfield and Pembroke (the towns in his mission), there were seven hundred families of various religious beliefs, — Presbyterians, Independents, Congregationalists, Anabaptists, Quakers, — and some that made no profession of any form of religion.

The number of those families professing themselves of the Church of England was fifty, who after proper instruction came into the Church from the different non-Episcopal bodies of Christians. The number of communicants was fifty, three of whom were Indians.

In 1766 he stated that, by the blessing of God, he had preserved his people from the murmurs and disorders that had lately prevailed in some parts of the Province, and, that he could, with truth and justice, say that his people were most true and faithful subjects of their most gracious Sovereign, and honest and sincere professors and members of the Church of England.

In 1771 he stated that there had been a handsome addition made to the east end of St. Andrew's Church, in Scituate, to accommodate with pews families added to the Church.

It is said that Mr. Thompson resided for about thirty years on the glebe given to the parish by Mr. Davenport: but a few years before his death, which occurred Nov. 20, 1775, he purchased and occupied the house on Mill Street, upon the site of which now stands the dwelling-house of Mr. Israel Hatch.

In a letter dated Jan. 14, 1776, of the Rev. Henry Caner, D.D. (the rector of the King's Chapel, Boston), to the Secretary of the Honorable Society, is this statement: "It is said "that the death of the Society's faithful and very worthy Missionary, Mr. Thompson of Scituate, was owing partly to bodily disorder and partly to some uncivil treatment from the rebels in his neighborhood," to which is added "The Parish are earnestly desirous of being re-supplied; but I hardly think any Gentleman would undertake the Mission in these troublesome times." At the time of Mr. Thompson's death, George III was the reigning British sovereign. His regnal years (sixty) exceeded those of any other sovereign of that realm.

On one of the stones, marking the spot where they rest, we read

Erected in Memory of the
 REV. EBENEZER THOMPSON who died Nover the 20. A.D. 1775 in ye 64 year of his age.

"I am the resurrection and the life saith the Lord: he that believeth in me though he were dead yet shall he live."

On the other we read,

In Memory of
 MRS. ESTHER THOMPSON,
 Relict of the Rev. Ebenr. Thompson, formerly
 Rector of St. Andrew's Church, Scituate
 Died July 27.. 1813 in the 99th year of her age.

"She was an affectionate wife, and tender mother
 "She sustained her bereavement with Christian resignation
 "In her life and conversation she displayed the Christian graces
 "She lived in faith and now rests from her labors."

Mr. Thompson was the son of Ebenezer Thompson, of New Haven, Conn., and was born June 21, 1712. He married Esther Stevens (born May 17, 1715) of New Haven.

He was brought up a Congregationalist, but, conforming to the Church, went to England for holy orders, which, after passing the proper examination, he received.

At the dying request of Mr. Thompson, and, after his death, at the earnest desire of the Mission in Scituate, the Rev. Edward Winslow, the Missionary at Braintree (now Christ Church, Quincy), engaged to serve the Church here, while destitute, as frequently as he could.

In the course he had appointed, on Sunday, June 9, 1776, he officiated here to a large congregation, composed of the members of the two united churches of Scituate and Marshfield.

On the evening of this Sunday, Mr. Winslow was surprised by a citation to appear the next morning before a Committee of Safety, at a distance of two miles from this spot, to answer to a charge of sowing discord and dissension.

Taking with him one of the Church Wardens of this parish, he attended at the time and place appointed. When he was admitted to an audience with the Committee, he found a magistrate, a non-Episcopal minister, and about ten or twelve coadjutors convened.

The magistrate, having a Book of Common Prayer, recited to him the four suffrages in the Litany, and then the two prayers in both the Morning Prayer and the Evening Prayer for the King's Majesty and the Royal Family, and told him that all they had to allege against him was the using of those suffrages and prayers publicly in the Church on the preceding day, asking him whether or not he was sincere and conscientious in so doing.

Upon his answering affirmatively, the magistrate said that such a practice, at that time of open rupture with the King and Parliament of England, was inimical to his country, and that his officiating in the Church here served to promote discord and divisions only.

The Committee finding him not inclined to submission, adjudged that the complaint should be referred to the Braintree Committee of Safety. Subsequently, the latter Committee resolved to present the name of Mr. Winslow to the General Court as that of a contumacious fomenter of alienation from the United Colonies, and an avowed enemy of his native country, and it was presented; but what action, if any, in connection with this presentation, was taken by the Court, is not known.

On the 1st of January 1777, Mr. Winslow stated that at Scituate, Marshfield and Bridgewater, the Churchmen had been obliged to submit to the shutting up of their churches, which he had constantly attended until the month of June in the previous year, since which time he had not been able to visit those places more than occasionally, to administer the Sacrament of Baptism and to perform private religious offices.

He also stated that the people of those churches, particularly those of Scituate and Marshfield, with whom chiefly, since Mr. Thompson's death, he had been conversant, had held fast their profession without wavering, — unmoved from their adherence to the Church, and their affection for the King and the National Constitution, by all they had either suffered, or been threatened with.

In 1754, Mr. Winslow, as the Missionary at Stratford, Conn., of the Venerable Society, succeeded the Rev. Samuel Johnson, D.D., who in 1722 was pastor of the Congregational Church in West Haven, Conn., but conformed to the Church about the same time that his friend the Rev. Timothy Cutler, D.D., conformed.

About 1764, Mr. Winslow became the Venerable Society's Missionary at Braintree (now Quincy). He died in 1780.

The Records of the Parish, both as to spiritualities and to temporalities, prior to 1780, disappeared long since, and are believed to be no longer in existence.

The first entry in a book entitled "Records of St. Andrew's Church, in Scituate, in New England; Begun in August 1780," bearing the date of Aug. 11, 1780, is a copy of an invitation given to the Rev. Samuel Parker, of Boston, to be the minister of the parish, earnestly desiring him to attend upon and preach the Word, and administer the ordinances of the Gospel to its people, as often as he could, consistently with his other ministerial duties. To this invitation the names of fifty men, members of the parish, are appended.

The invitation was accepted, the relation thus entered into continuing, probably, between two and three years.

On the 27th of November, 1780, it was voted to give Mr. Parker, in consideration of officiating four times in a year at each of the churches of St. Andrew (Scituate) and Trinity (Marshfield), which were considered as one collective body so far as related to the services of a minister, twenty-five pounds in silver money yearly.

The Right Rev. Samuel Parker, D.D., was brought up a Congregationalist. Having conformed to the Church, he went to England for Episcopal ordination, and on the 24th of February, 1774, was admitted to the Order of Deacon by the Right Rev. Richard Terrick, D.D., Bishop of London, who, three days after, ordained him priest.

Having returned to Boston in November of that year, he entered upon his duties as assistant minister of Trinity Church, in that city; in June, 1779, he became its rector.

In 1789 he was honored by the University of Pennsylvania with the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Upon the death of Bishop Bass, which occurred Sept. 10, 1803, he, on the 29th of May, 1804, was elected Bishop of Massachusetts.

He was, on the 16th of September in that year, ordained or consecrated to the work and ministry of a bishop, but was not permitted to discharge the distinctive duties of his high office, for, almost immediately after, he was prostrated by disease, which ended his earthly life on the 6th of December, 1804, at the age of fifty-nine.

The last minister of the parish, while it worshipped in the church edifice on this spot, was the Rev. William Willard Wheeler.

On the 5th of May, 1783, he was chosen rector of St. Andrew's Church (Scituate) and Trinity Church (Marshfield).

In the Journal of the Convention of the Diocese of Massachusetts, for 1785, he is recorded as rector of the united churches at Scituate, Marshfield, Braintree and Bridgewater. In that for 1790, he is designated as rector of St. Thomas's Church, Taunton, as well as of the two churches in Scituate and Marshfield.

During his ministry here of about twenty-six years, he administered the sacrament of baptism to eighty-four persons and united in holy matrimony twenty-two couples. As to the number of communicants and the number of burials at which he officiated we have no information. It was characterized by amiability, sincerity, unselfishness and conscientious fidelity in the discharge of his duties.

Mr. Wheeler was a son of William Wheeler, and was born in Concord, Mass., Dec. 24, 1734.

He was recommended to the Venerable Society by the clergy of the convention assembled in Boston, June 17, 1767. In the latter part of that year he went to England for holy orders and having accomplished his object, and been designated by the Society as the missionary for Georgetown (which then included all the territory within the present limits of Bath, Woolwich and Phippsburg, Me.), he returned to this country in May, 1768. He remained at Georgetown till April, 1772, when he went to Newport, R. I., as assistant to the Rev. George Bissett, rector of Trinity Church in that town.

Mr. Wheeler married Jane, a daughter of the Rev. Ebenezer Thompson, one of his pre-Revolutionary predecessors in the work of the ministry in this parish.

He departed this life on the 14th of January, 1810, having reached the age of seventy-five years.

The stones marking their resting places bear the following inscriptions:—

Consecrated to the Memory of
REV. WILLIAM WHEELER,
Rector of the Episcopalian Church in Scituate.
Died

Jan. 14, 1810, Aet. 75 years.

"What though the gloomy tyrant Death
Doth God's own house invade,
What though the pastor and the priest
Be numbered with the dead,
The eternal Shepherd still survives
New comfort to impart,
His hand still guides us and his voice
Still animates our heart."

"Erected in Memory of
MRS. JANE WHEELER,
Relict of the Rev. WILLIAM W. WHEELER, formerly Rector of St. Andrew's Church in Scituate.
Died

July 30, 1821, aged 64 years."

"No pain, no grief, no anxious fear
Can reach the peaceful sleeper here."

At a meeting of the parish, held April 24, 1810, it was voted: "that the Society are willing to attend public worship in Hanover, provided individuals will build a new Church in said Hanover."

A church for the use of the parish having been erected in the adjacent town of Hanover, and been consecrated by the Right Rev. Alexander Viets Griswold, D.D., June 11, 1811, services in the original church were discontinued. Subsequently it was sold and taken down.

OF THE UNIVERSITY OF LEIDEN

The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, now (1882) in the one hundred and eighty-second year of its existence, to which we are indebted for our foundation as a parish for a long continuance of nursing care and protection, is the oldest missionary society in the world, having been instituted under a charter granted June 16, 1701, by King William the Third.

Of the eight clergymen who ministered to the church people in Scituate, (the Indian name was Satuit, from Satuit Brook, in the eastern part of the town), seven—Cutler, Miller, Davenport, Brockwell, Thompson, Winslow and Wheeler were sent forth as missionaries by the Venerable Society.

The following statement as to the dates of their ministerial service is approximately correct: Timothy Cutler, 1725-1730; —Ebenezer Miller 1730-1735—Addington Davenport, 1735-3 1737^{1/2}; Charles Brockwell 1737—Ebenezer Thompson, 1762-1743 1775; Edward Winslow 1775-1776; Samuel Parker, 1780-1783 and William Willard Wheeler 1783-1810. Of these eight, four—Cutler, Davenport, Thompson and Parker—received their religious training among the Congregationalists.

In continuation of this chapter it has been considered suitable to insert a copy of that portion of the contents of the book referred to by Dr. Brooks in his address, entitled "Records of St. Andrew's Church in Scituate in New England: Begun August, 1780," recording the minutes of church meetings and elections, and other facts of a historical nature. The records of admissions to the church, baptisms, marriages, deaths and burials, will appear in succeeding chapters. These entries, with, however, apparent intermissions, extend from August, 1780, to February 27, 1872, and are, doubtless, in the handwriting of the ministers, for the time being. The order of the original text has been observed, as well as the spelling and other features.

The Church history since 1872, as contained in the Parish Registers, forms the concluding portion of the chapter.

2.1. THE BROWNIAN MOTION

Definition 2.1.1	(i)	Let $\{B_t\}_{t \geq 0}$ be a stochastic process with values in \mathbb{R}^d .
	(ii)	Let $B_0 = 0$.
	(iii)	Let B_t be independent of $\{B_s\}_{s \leq t}$.
	(iv)	Let B_t be a Gaussian random variable with mean 0 and covariance matrix tI_d .
	(v)	Let B_t be continuous in t .
	(vi)	Let B_t be adapted to the filtration $\{\mathcal{F}_t\}_{t \geq 0}$.
	(vii)	Let B_t be a martingale.
	(viii)	Let B_t be a Brownian motion.
	(ix)	Let B_t be a standard Brownian motion.
	(x)	Let B_t be a Brownian motion with drift μ .

where I_d is the identity matrix in \mathbb{R}^d .

Remark 2.1.2. The above definition is equivalent to the following one. Let $\{B_t\}_{t \geq 0}$ be a stochastic process with values in \mathbb{R}^d . Then $\{B_t\}_{t \geq 0}$ is a Brownian motion if and only if it satisfies the following conditions:

- (a) $B_0 = 0$.
- (b) B_t is a Gaussian random variable with mean 0 and covariance matrix tI_d .
- (c) B_t is continuous in t .
- (d) B_t is adapted to the filtration $\{\mathcal{F}_t\}_{t \geq 0}$.
- (e) B_t is a martingale.

Proof. Suppose $\{B_t\}_{t \geq 0}$ is a Brownian motion. Then $B_0 = 0$ and B_t is a Gaussian random variable with mean 0 and covariance matrix tI_d . Moreover, B_t is continuous in t and adapted to the filtration $\{\mathcal{F}_t\}_{t \geq 0}$. Finally, B_t is a martingale. Conversely, suppose $\{B_t\}_{t \geq 0}$ satisfies conditions (a) through (e). Then B_t is a Gaussian random variable with mean 0 and covariance matrix tI_d . Moreover, B_t is continuous in t and adapted to the filtration $\{\mathcal{F}_t\}_{t \geq 0}$. Finally, B_t is a martingale. Therefore, $\{B_t\}_{t \geq 0}$ is a Brownian motion.

Remark 2.1.3. The above definition is equivalent to the following one. Let $\{B_t\}_{t \geq 0}$ be a stochastic process with values in \mathbb{R}^d . Then $\{B_t\}_{t \geq 0}$ is a Brownian motion if and only if it satisfies the following conditions:

(a) $B_0 = 0$.

Voted: Thirty pounds to repair St. Andrew's Church and the Glebe House.

Voted: Dr. Charles Stockbridge a delegate to represent the Society and Church of St. Andrew's in the Annual Protestant Episcopal Convention to be holden in Boston on the Tuesday next preceeding the last Wednesday in May present.

Voted: Thirty pounds for repairing the Church of St. Andrews and the Glebe-house.

The following is a summary of the main findings of the study. The results show that the use of the new method significantly improved the accuracy of the measurements compared to the standard method. The data indicate that the new method is more reliable and consistent, especially in cases where the standard method is prone to error.

The study was conducted over a period of 12 months, during which time a total of 100 subjects were recruited. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group and the experimental group. The control group used the standard method, while the experimental group used the new method.

Parameter	Control Group (n=50)	Experimental Group (n=50)
Mean Value	12.5	13.2
Standard Deviation	2.1	1.8
Range	8.0 - 17.0	9.0 - 16.0
Median	11.0	12.0
Mode	10.0	11.0
Skewness	0.5	0.3
Kurtosis	1.2	1.1

The results of the statistical analysis show that the difference between the two groups is statistically significant. The p-value is less than 0.05, indicating that the new method is significantly better than the standard method. The data also show that the new method has a lower standard deviation, suggesting that it is more precise.

The study has several limitations. First, the sample size was relatively small, which may affect the generalizability of the results. Second, the study was conducted in a controlled environment, which may not reflect real-world conditions. Finally, the study did not include a long-term follow-up, so the durability of the results is unknown.

Despite these limitations, the study provides valuable insights into the effectiveness of the new method. The results suggest that the new method is a promising alternative to the standard method, particularly in situations where accuracy and precision are critical. Further research is needed to confirm these findings and to explore the potential applications of the new method in clinical practice.

Keywords: new method, accuracy, precision, standard method, statistical analysis.

1873 Miss Lillie S. Sylvester presented the Parish with two Dec. 25. copies of the Standard Prayer Book in memory of her mother Mrs. Mary Salmond Sylvester.

NOTE:—See an entry as of September 1, 1877 in Records begun September 30, 1880.

1878 "In the Chapel of the Church Home for Orphans, Jan. 9. South Boston, I deposed from the Ministry the Rev. Samuel Cutler, he having abandoned this Church and joined the so-called Reformed Episcopal Church."—Bp. Paddock's Address, Journal of Convention, Dio. of Mass. 1878.

1879 The Parish Sewing Circle celebrated, with appropriate July 18 exercises, the close of the Fiftieth year of its existence.

1880 A commodious and churchly Chancel was added to the Mar. 28 Church, almost the entire expense of which was borne East. Day by Mrs. Horatio Bigelow and Mrs. Eliza Salmond, in equal proportions.

In connection with this addition, the interior of the Church edifice at the expense of the Parishioners, while still retaining many of its original features, was greatly changed and vastly improved. From a sum of money remaining after paying all the obligations incurred by Trinity Church, Marshfield, which through deaths and removals ceased to exist, there was procured a Holy Table, memorial of those who were its communicant members, and who now in the Lord are sleeping. On the front panels of the Holy Table are the "Alpha" and the "Omega" and the "Chi Rho."

On the front of the Re-Table are the words "This Do In Remembrance of Me."

NOTE.—See an entry as of May 16, 1880 in Records begun
September 30, 1880.

1880 Lightning in the form of a ball of fire, descended on June 1. the Church, burning the spire and the tower to the bell
Tuesday deck and extensively shattering the front of the building. Through the heroic exertions of parishioners and neighbors aided by a drenching rain, it pleased a gracious God to preserve the edifice from destruction. "WE PRAISE THEE. WE BLESS THEE."

Through the action of fire and water the Bell was rendered unfit for further use.

The reconstructed interior, and the new Chancel were but slightly damaged.

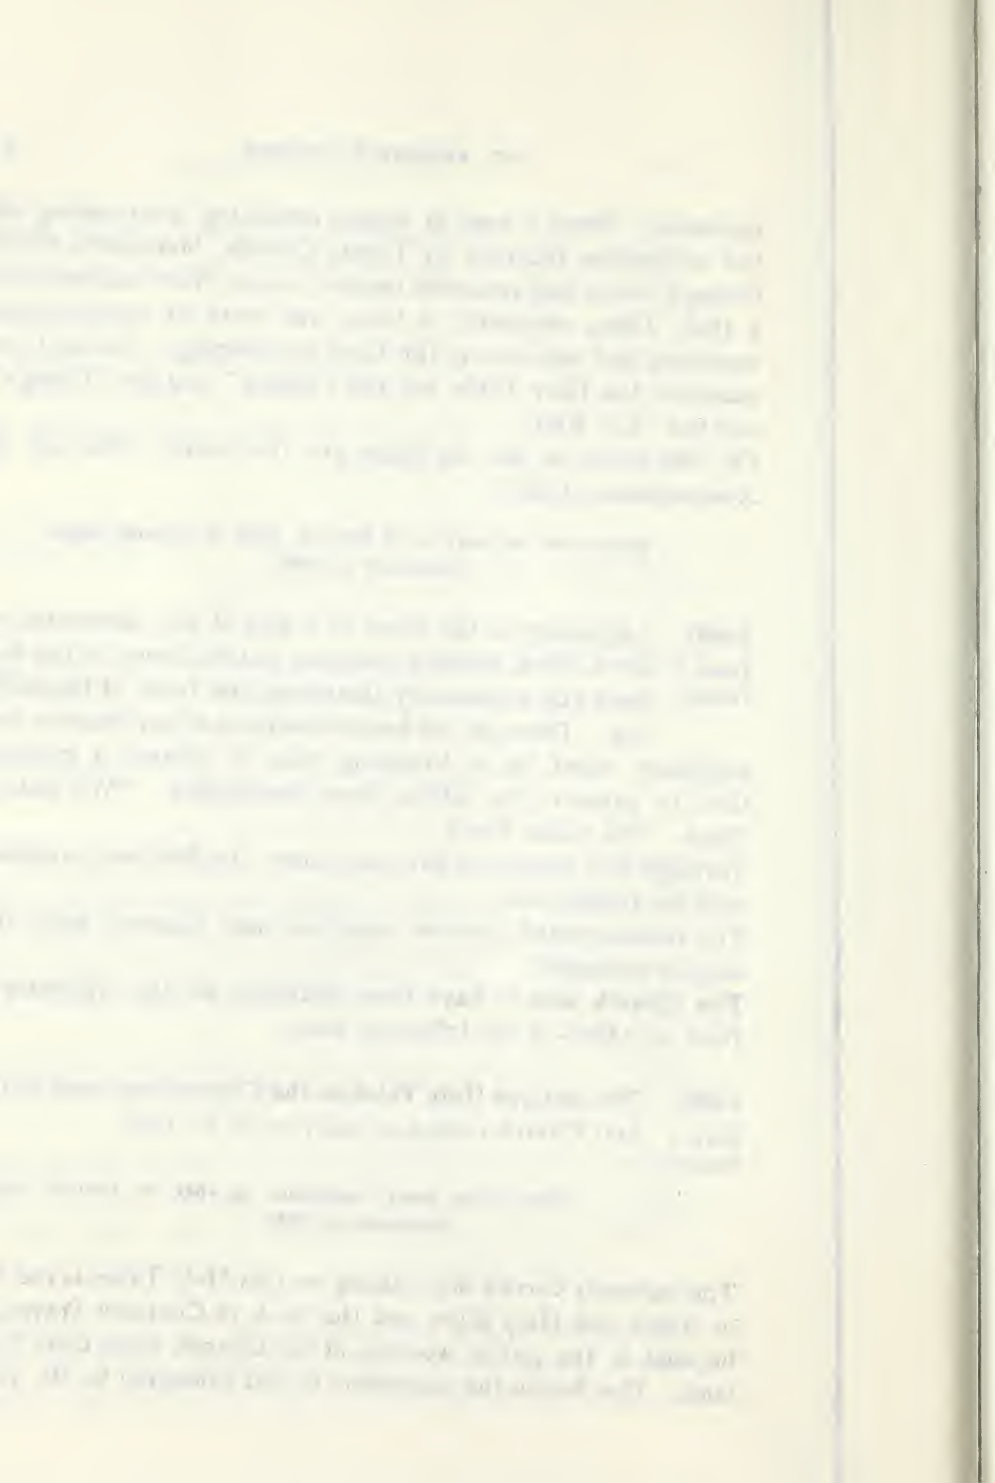

The Church was to have been dedicated on the Thursday—June 10, 1880—of the following week.

1880 The antique Holy Table in the Chancel was used in the July 1 first Church edifice, as early as A. D. 1737.

NOTE.—See entry September 3, 1882 in Records begun
September 30, 1880.

The curiously carved box, resting on this Holy Table, is the box in which the Holy Bible and the Book of Common Prayer, to be used in the public worship of the Church, came from England. This box in the possession of and belonging to Mr. John Pierce Eells, a parishioner of St. Andrew's Church, was by him very thoughtfully and generously presented to the Parish.

The Book of Common Prayer which came in this box is no longer in the possession of the Parish: what became of it is not known.

Its companion, the Holy Bible, was the gift, about, A. D. 1732, of "The Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts," and is still used in reading the Lessons in Divine Service.

On its outside are the words in gilt letters "St. Andrew's Church."

On its title page is the imprint: "London. Printed by John Baskett, Printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty. And by the Assigns of Thomas Newcomb and Henry Hills, deceased. 1723."

On one of its leaves is a printed cut representing the Seal of the Society with its legend "Sigillum Societatis De Promovendo Evangelio in Partibus Transmarinis." On the seal is a scroll with the words "Transiens Adiuvanos."

Beneath the seal are the words "The Gift of the Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts." The Book of Common Prayer used in the office for the Holy Communion bears on its title page the imprint "New York. By Direction of the General Convention, Printed By Hugh Gaine, At the Bible, Hanover Square, MDCCXCV."

1880 The Reverend Samuel Cutler, Rector of the Parish July 17 A. D. 1841--A. D. 1872 died in Boston, Mass, aged 75
 Saturday, 3¼ A. M. years.

1880 His funeral services took place in the Somerset Street July 20 Church, Boston: his interment in the Cemetery at Tuesday Hanover Centre.

This History is continued in a Book marked "Historical Records of St. Andrew's Church, Hanover, Diocese of Massachusetts 1880 September 30."

VOLUME III.

1880 On Thursday, September 30, 1880, the enlarged and Sept. 30 renewed Church edifice was dedicated by the Rt. Rev.

Benjamin Henry Paddock, D.D. Bishop of the Diocese of Massachusetts.

The repairs to the exterior of the Church edifice damaged by the fire from heaven were made after plans by Sturgis & Brigham of Boston who also were the architects who furnished the plans for the Chancel.

Towards the cost of the repairs the following contributions were received from persons outside of the Parish.

Alexander Williams, Boston	$50
The Rev. Joseph Hart Clinch, S. T. D., South Boston	20
Thomas William Parsons, L.L.D.	10
Anonymous, Boston	10
William Carver Bates, Newton	5

When the interior of the Church edifice was reconstructed the organ was moved from the East-end Gallery to the floor of the Church, south of the Chancel. The space thus made in the gallery was utilized by the erection therein of six pews.

The new Bell was placed in position Saturday, September 4, 1880. It bears this inscription "Cast by William Blake & Co. formerly H. N. Hooper & Co. Boston, Mass. A.D. 1880."

1882 This day, being the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Consecration of Bishop Smith, a framed photograph of St. Andrew's Church, Hanover was presented to him as a souvenir of the occasion, accompanied by the following letter:

Hanover, Massachusetts, Oct. 31 A. D. 1882.

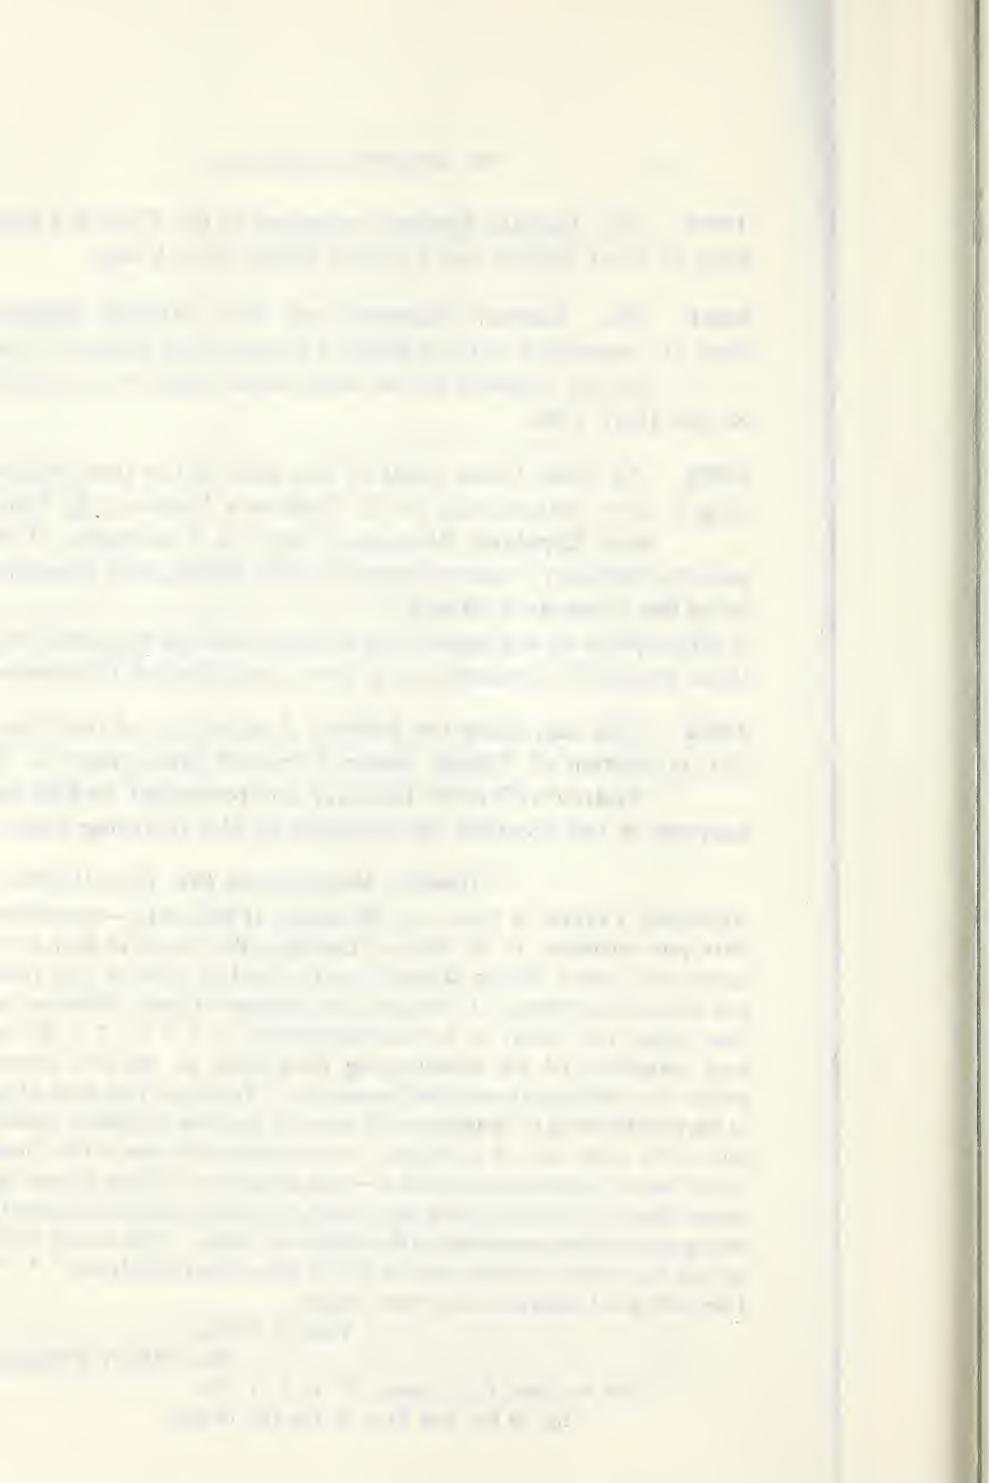

REVEREND FATHER IN GOD:—In the month of May 1817,—immediately after your admission to the office of Deacon in the Church of God, by the saintly and sainted Bishop Griswold, on the 23rd of April of that year—you accepted an invitation to officiate in St. Andrew's Church, Hanover, and then began your labors as a Parochial Minister. * * * * * We ask your acceptance of the accompanying photograph of the first Church, within whose walls you were called to minister. The frame (the work of one of the parishioners) is constructed of pieces of its three successive chancel-rails—the outer one, of mahogany, is from that which was in the Church at the time of your ministrations in it—the middle one, of pine is from that placed there in 1857—the inner one, of ash, is from the one in use since the enlargement and reconstruction of the edifice—in 1880. With loving wishes for your happiness on this day and on all the days of your earthly life * * * * I am with great veneration and warm regard

Yours in Christ,

WM. HENRY BROOKS.

Bp. of Ky. and Pres. in the Ho. of Bps.

1882 At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, a service memorial of St. Sept. 3. Andrew's Scituate (which in 1811, became St. Andrew's Hanover), was held on the site — Church Hill — of the Church-edifice opened for Divine Worship Oct. 11 A. D. 1731. A brief account of the services, and the address delivered on the occasion, were published in pamphlet form. The antique Holy Table in the Chancel (referred to in the History of the Parish, in the Parish Register begun April 1, 1872) it is believed was in St. Andrew's Church Scituate, October 11 A. D. 1731 when it was first opened for Divine Service.

It undoubtedly was as early as 1737.

The warrant for the latter statement is as follows: Originally the table was colored with a red stain; subsequently this red stain was covered with paint, either white, or of a very delicate cream color; when Aug. 23, 1875 the table was restored at the expense of Horatio Bigelow and his wife, parishioners, the name CHARLES BROCKWELL, that of the second resident minister of the Parish, who removed from it about Sept. 1737, was found written in pencil, under the outer covering of paint, and on the red stain.

1883 The following communication from the Rev. Henry W. June 9. Tucker, M. A. London, Eng. was received.

“Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts.”
19 Delahay Street, Westminster, S. W., 24, May, 1883.

Let f be a function defined on the interval $[a, b]$ and let F be a function defined on the interval $[a, b]$ such that

$$F'(x) = f(x) \quad \text{for all } x \in [a, b].$$

Then the function F is called an antiderivative of f on the interval $[a, b]$.

It is easy to see that if F is an antiderivative of f on the interval $[a, b]$, then

$$F(b) - F(a) = \int_a^b f(x) dx.$$

This result is known as the Fundamental Theorem of Calculus.

 succeeded in uniting the kingdom of Wessex with the kingdom of Mercia, which was ruled by King Æthelstan.
 This was a very important step, as it

NOTE.—Hanover in the original records appears so often as the place of residence and "Cemetery at Hanover Centre" and "Center Hanover" so frequently as the place of interment that those places may be here understood except where the name is followed by * or †. The first indicates that the records do not show the place of residence; the second that the place of interment does not appear.

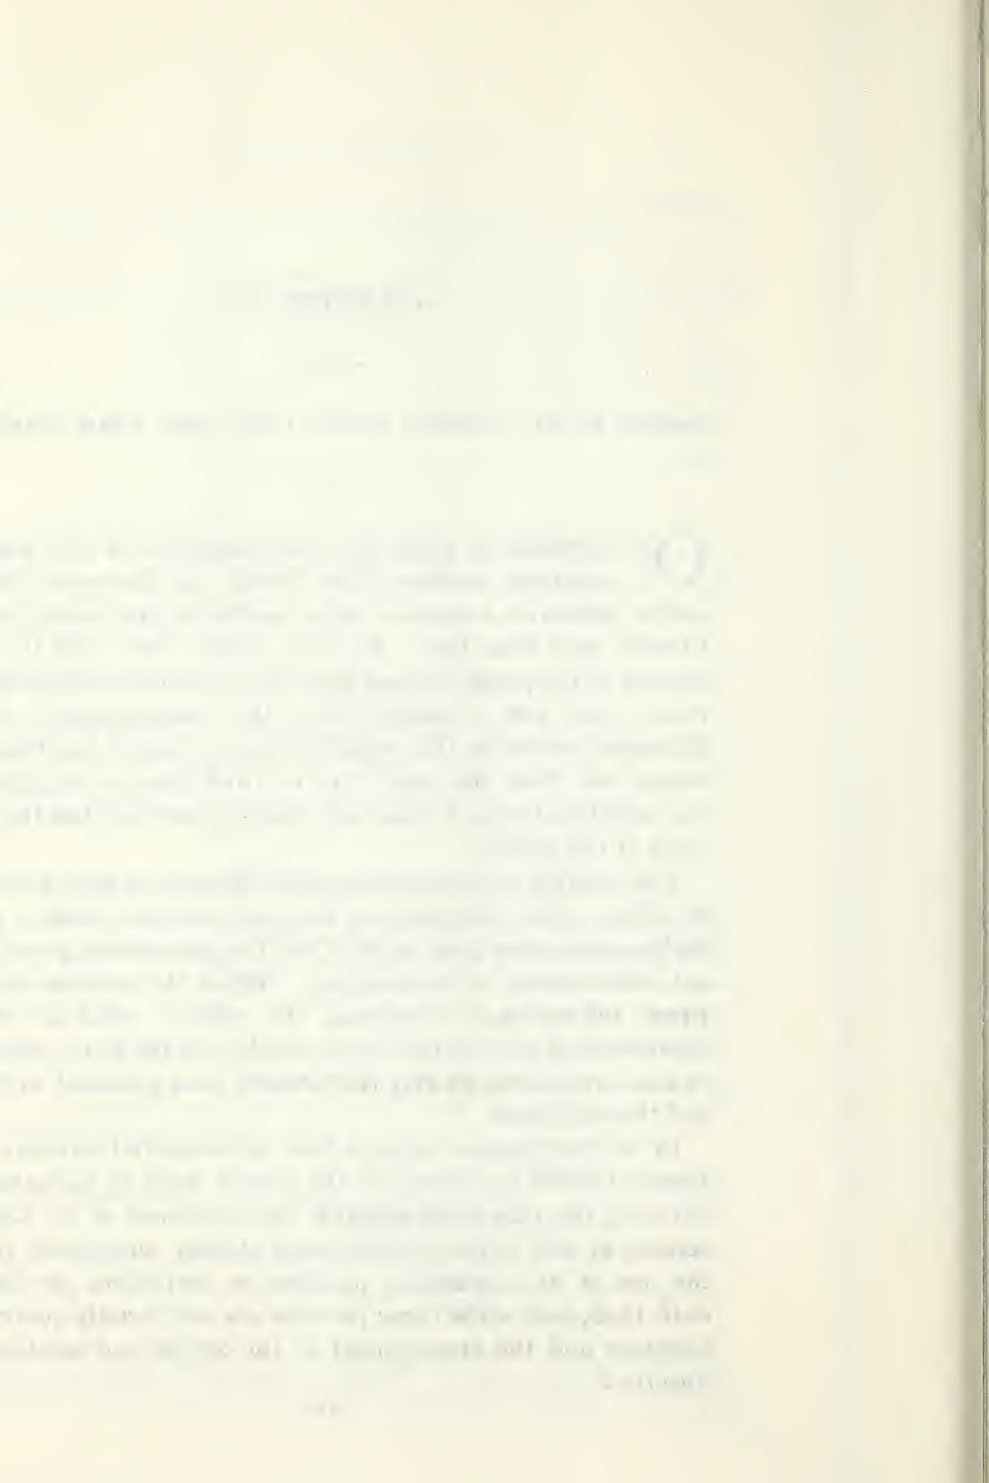

CHAPTER VI.

HISTORY OF ST. ANDREWS PARISH CONTINUED FROM CHAPTER I.

ON November 8, 1846, upon the completion of five years of ministerial service in the Parish, the Reverend Samuel Cutler delivered a sermon which embodies the history of the Church until that time. In it he states that "All the early records of the parish are lost as well as a portion of those of later years. For half a century from the commencement of the Episcopal service in this neighborhood no record has been preserved and from the year 1810 to 1818 there is no register of the ministerial acts of those who during that time had the oversight of the parish."

The existing records of the parish afford but a mere outline of its affairs, both spiritual and temporal and from them it seemingly appears that prior to Mr. Cutler's pastorate its growth was not considerable or encouraging. When the sermon was prepared information concerning the subject could be readily obtained from sources not now available, and the facts, presented in admirable form, we may feel assured were gathered with care and thoroughness.

In the first chapter extracts from the memorial sermon of Dr. Brooks furnish the history of the church while at Scituate, and pursuing the plan there adopted, the excellence of Dr. Cutler's sermon as well as the circumstances already mentioned, justify the use of its appropriate portions in continuing the history until 1846, and, while these portions are not literally quoted the language and the arrangement of the original are substantially observed.

About the year 1809 or 1810 there was an accession of members to the Parish occasioned by some disagreement in the Congregational Society at Hanover relative to the settling of a minister.

The increase led to the proposition for the erection of a new church in a more favorable location and where a majority of the worshippers would be better accommodated. The building at Scituate was small and needed frequent repairs to make it ten-antable. Hence at a meeting of the Parish held April 24, 1810 it was voted "That the Society are willing to attend public worship in Hanover provided individuals will build a new church in said Hanover."

The Parish continued to worship in the old church while the new building was erecting. According to the statement of one who was at the time an interested and active agent in the enterprise, the new edifice was erected at a cost of $5000 and the building committee consisted of Horatio Cushing, Reuben Curtis and Edward Eells and Albert Smith and Melzar Curtis were the contractors. The building was consecrated to the worship of God according to the usage of the Protestant Episcopal church on June 13, 1811 by Bishop Griswold and was the first church in Massachusetts consecrated by him. In his first address to the convention of the Eastern Diocese he reported the consecration of St. John's, Providence, R. I. and St. Andrew's, Hanover. He also mentions the institution of the Rev. Joab G. Cooper as rector of the church.

After the death of Mr Wheeler and previous to the election of Mr. Cooper the services of the church were performed by several clergymen. On the 24th of April, 1810 it was voted "That the wardens and vestry request the Rev. Samuel Sewall, Jr. to preach until the last Thursday in September next." The invitation was accepted by him but before the time arrived on which he had agreed to enter on his duties a change in his views relative to the doctrine of the Trinity led him to withdraw his name as a candidate for orders. The wardens and vestry were directed at their discretion to supply the pulpit. There is no record of those who officiated from October 1810 to October 1811. It is probable however that during the summer of the latter year the Rev. Joab Goldsmith Cooper of Long Island was of the number as he was unanimously elected as rector October 7, 1811. He resigned the charge of the Parish at Easter, 1816. Mr. Cooper left no record of his ministerial acts.

After the resignation of Mr. Cooper, the Rev. Jonathan M. Wainwright, then a candidate for ordination, officiated for a few months. The Rev. George Otis, the Rev. James B. Howe and the Rev. Benjamin B. Smith, later Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Kentucky, officiated a number of times. Mr. Wainwright and Mr. Otis officiated as lay readers and Mr. Howe for a portion of the time.

On June 2, 1817 it was voted "That the wardens request Mr. James B. Howe to supply the church one half the time until the first day of October next." On the sixth of October it was voted "That the wardens employ Mr. Howe to supply the pulpit one half the time until next Christmas." On December second a similar invitation was extended to Mr. Howe to remain until Easter, 1818 at which time he was invited to settle in the Parish. Although Mr. Howe declined the rectorship he probably continued his services until the summer of 1818. He was afterwards settled in Claremont, N. H. He died suddenly while on a journey from Boston to the western part of the United States in the month of September, 1844.

On July 27, 1818 it was voted to employ the Rev. Calvin Wolcott and on September 30, 1818 he was elected to the rectorship. From the address delivered by Bishop Griswold to the Diocesan Convention at Greenfield on September 13, 1818 it appears that Mr. Wolcott officiated a part of the time at Quincy and in the vote by which he was elected rector it is provided that he has liberty to be absent one quarter part of each and every year. Mr. Wolcott having accepted the charge of Parish and entered upon its duties was ordained as presbyter by Bishop Griswold at a meeting of the convention held at Salem, November 18, 1818.

Under his zealous ministrations the prospects of the Parish assumed a more encouraging aspect ; contention and disaffection with Mr. Cooper had been a serious detriment to the interests of the people which the occasional ministrations of those who had preceded Mr. Wolcott had not wholly remedied. An impression of the condition of the Parish at the beginning of his ministry is offered by a quotation from an address of Bishop Griswold to a convention of the Eastern Diocese in 1820. He says : " July 1, 1819, A. M. Preached at Hanover, confirmed and gave the Communion. In this cold region there is hope that the Sun of Righteousness is diffusing his vital rays and that some are now rejoicing in the light of his truth. In the afternoon preached again. The people hear with eager attention. May the Lord graft his word in their hearts." " Friday, July 2, preached in Marshfield; the church would not hold all who flocked to hear." This remark suggests that the church in Marshfield which for many years had been connected with the old church in Scituate was also the scene of Mr. Wolcott's labors. He continued during his residence at Hanover to preach at Marshfield one Sunday in each Month or a quarter of his time.*

His resignation of the rectorship was accepted by the Parish July 14, 1834. From Hanover he removed to the western part of the state and officiated for a time in the churches in Otis and Blandford. Subsequently he was in charge of churches at Quincy and Hopkinton, N. H., and later was an agent of the American Bible Society.

* A small church in Marshfield established as early as 1745 has always been connected with St. Andrew's, the rector officiating there one Sabbath in four. A new church edifice has been erected there in 1826 near " Three Pine Hill " and two miles to the northward of the former edifice.

Another Episcopal church situated in Taunton was for many years connected with St. Andrew's, the rector officiating there one Sabbath in four. The church edifice was situated two miles from " the green " on the Providence Road. It was taken down many years since and it was not until 1828 that a neat little Gothic church was erected a few rods south of " the green "

St. Andrews obtained an act of the Incorporation in 1797. The wardens then were Charles Bailey and Thomas Barstow, Jr.—[History of Scituate by Samuel Deane — 1831 — page 47.

During the rectorship of Mr. Wolcott the records show 57 baptisms, 27 confirmations and that the number of communicants was between 40 and 50.

On November 24, 1834, after an interval of six months during which the church was without a rector, an arrangement was made with the Rev. Samuel G. Appleton for one year and at the Easter meeting in 1835 a committee was chosen to consult with Mr. Appleton as to his becoming rector of the society. The arrangement was effected and Mr. Appleton continued his service until November, 1838. He was afterwards engaged in the Diocese of Western New York. During the rectorship of Mr. Appleton there was an addition of several families as reported by him to the convention of 1837. A new organ was procured at an expense of $450. He officiated one Sunday in each month at Marshfield and on those days held a service at Hanover on his return.

He left a record showing 8 baptisms, 11 confirmations, 16 marriages and 35 burials. After Mr. Appleton's departure in November, 1838, the Parish was again unsupplied until March, 1839, when the Rev. Eleazer A. Greenleaf was chosen rector. He commenced his labors the first Sunday after Easter. According to the terms of his invitation he officiated a part of two Sundays in the month at Marshfield and at Hanover on the other parts of these Sundays, instead of every fourth Sunday at Marshfield as had been for some time the custom. He removed to Drewsville N. H. and was located afterward as Missionary at Stillwater in the Diocese of Michigan. During his service which continued until October, 1841, there is a record of 18 baptisms, 7 of which were of adults, 4 confirmations, 7 marriages and 13 burials.

On November 7th 1841, the Rev. Samuel Cutler (then recently ordained deacon) officiated at the church for the first time. The communicants at the beginning of his ministry numbered 45.

The Rev. Samuel Cutler was born at Newburyport, Mass., May 12, 1805.* His father was for many years a merchant in that city, president of an insurance company and warden of the Protestant Episcopal church. His ancestor, John Cutler of Hingham, England, was among the adherents of Rev. Robert Peck "who sold their possessions for one half their value and in 1637 removed with him to New England and named the place of their settlement after their native town."

His mother, whose maiden name was Lydia Prout, was of the Hutchinson family, prominent in the early political and religious history of the colony, her grand-uncle, Thomas having been governor of the Province in 1771.

At 14 he became a clerk in a store at Newburyport and at 21 he removed to Portland, Me., where forming a co-partnership in the dry goods business he remained eight years. He then became a member of the importing and jobbing firm of Edward Clarke & Co. of Boston and continued that connection until 1838.

He had long felt that he was called to the work of the Christian Ministry and notwithstanding favorable opportunities to again engage in business, he applied himself to a course of study and on May 12, 1841 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Griswold at St. Paul's church, Boston. The following year he was called to the rectorship of St. Andrew's where he was ordained presbyter by Bishop Griswold assisted by the Rev. John Woart of Christ Church, Boston and the Rev. Charles M. Clarke, rector of Grace Church, Boston, afterward Bishop of Rhode Island.

As a result of the complete victory of the ritualists at the triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal church at Boston in the contest between the high and low church parties, which had waged for a quarter of a century, Mr. Cutler felt that there was no longer a place within church where he could labor, so radically different were his beliefs and principles from those that the convention established.

He resigned his office as presbyter and on April 1, 1872, after a faithful and acceptable service of thirty years and five months he severed his connection with the Parish. His resignation was accepted with unfeigned regret. The "Abington Standard" of April, 1872, in an extended notice of Mr. Cutler's work testified that "he was universally respected and beloved; that the impress of his ministry would not soon be effaced and that he would be followed by many good wishes and long be held in respectful and affectionate remembrance."

Feeling however that his work was not done, on Advent Sunday, 1877, he inaugurated public services in the Freeman Place Chapel in Boston under the constitution and canons of the Reformed Episcopal Church. Here he ministered for two years, and then as the church seemed firmly established, he requested that a successor be appointed.

In the spring of 1880 he was attacked with a disease of a rheumatic nature, extremely painful at times and he passed away at Boston on July 17 of that year.

The following extracts from his will, registered at Boston, may be of interest to the reader :

I. I desire and direct that the necessary funeral expenses including a suitable stone with the name, date and death and age and any indebtedness (if any) be paid. My body to be placed in my lot in the burial ground in Hanover, Mass., leaving room for the body of my wife, to be placed between my own body and that of our son, Samuel Gardner Cutler

The remainder of his estate the testator bequeathed to his wife and two trustees in trust; the income thereof to be paid to his wife during her life and upon her decease he directed that the property then remaining should be divided and paid in equal parts as follows :

"To the American Bible Society formed in New York in the year 1816, one third of the same; to the American Tract Society instituted in the City of New York, one third of the same. The amounts thus bequeathed to be applied to the charitable uses and purposes of said Bible and Tract Societies. The remaining one third I give and bequeath to the trustees of the Sustentation Fund of the Reformed Episcopal Church, to be used at the discretion of the trustees or their successors in office for missionary or church building purposes in connection with the Reformed Episcopal Church.

II. I give and bequeath to Charles Cullis, M. D. of Boston (if living, if not to the trustees of the Faith Training College) $1000 for the general uses and purposes of said college, established by the said Charles Cullis and now located at Beacon Hill Place in the City of Boston; or the said sum of $1000 may at the discretion of the said Charles Cullis and the trustees of Faith College be transferred and used for the Consumptives Home, now located at Grove Hall and also under the care of Dr. Cullis.

III. I give and bequeath to the trustees of the Sustentation Fund of the Reformed Episcopal Church, the sum of $1000 to be used at their discretion,

1. In aid of public worship and the establishment—the Lord blessing the effort—of a church and parish in union with that body in the City of Boston, Mass., or

2. For the general missionary and benevolent purposes of the Reformed Episcopal Church.

IV. I give and bequeath to the directors of the General Theological Library in the City of Boston in trust, the sum of $500 toward the building fund of said corporation.

On February 27, 1880, in a codicil after reciting the legacies to the Sustentation Fund of the Reformed Episcopal Church Mr. Cutler willed as follows :

“I hereby revoke said bequest and give and bequeath the amount to said trustees to be used——

I. For the support of public worship and in aid of what is known as the First Reformed Episcopal Church in the City of Boston, Mass., or——

II. For general missionary or church building purposes connected with the Reformed Episcopal Church, if for good reasons it should not be wanted in Boston.

But inasmuch as I am from principle opposed to the use of the white garment known as the surplice, whether worn by minister or chorister and as in some Reformed Episcopal Churches this priestly habit is worn I make as a condition of the bequest that neither in whole or in part shall it be appropriated for the support of any candidate for the ministry or for any minister or missionary who wears the surplice or for the purchase, repair or erection of a church edifice or place of worship where any other clerical habit than the black gown is used. And should the trustees of the Sustentation Fund of the Reformed Episcopal Church or their successors refuse or neglect the acceptance of the bequest on these conditions, I will and direct whoever may have the settlement of my estate under the will to pay the amount thus refused in equal portions to the American Bible Society for charitable uses and purposes as declared in Section VIII of my will before referred to and in addition to the bequests made in that section the bequest in the III section of my will I place under the same restrictions.

Bishop William R. Nicholson formerly rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Boston, in his report to the General Council of the Reformed Episcopal Church in 1879, says: "Sunday, February 10, 1878, being in Boston, I preached for my old friend Rev. Samuel Cutler to the little band of Reformed Episcopalians which he has so zealously and faithfully gathered together there under his ministry. I much enjoyed this meeting with him under the auspices of the Reformed Episcopal Church, seeing that we had been fellow members for so many years of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts." Bishop Nicholson in a report to a later council says again: "Sunday, February 13, 1881 I visited the First Reformed Episcopal Church, Boston and received in the rite of confirmation nine persons into the Communion of the Church. The name of Reverend Samuel Cutler is fragrant in that parish. A truer, braver man than he, it was hard to find."

Bishop Samuel Fallows in his report to the council of 1879 says: "Our cause in Boston has been faithfully sustained by the Rev. Samuel Cutler who merits the hearty appreciation of the church for his self-denying labors."

Mr. Cutler's influence extended greatly beyond his immediate circle of friends and acquaintances. He was a copious writer, the author of several tracts and larger devotional works, among them "The Name Above Every Name" and "The Work of the Holy Spirit" being doctrinal and practical meditations for every day in the year and both revised and published by the American Tract Society.

He was engaged in the promotion of private and public charities; was historiographer for some years of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, director in the North End Mission, Boston, and interested in the American Bible and Tract Society, the General Theological Library, Boston and other similar institutions.

Although twice married he left no descendants, his only child a son and long an invalid, died in 1869, aged 33 years.

"He was intensely earnest, active and aggressive, in the name of the Lord and every work he began in the service of God he did it with all his heart and prospered."

Mr. Cutler was succeeded by Reverend William Henry Brooks, S. T. D., who was born in Baltimore and at the age of 21 graduated at the Virginia Theological Seminary and was ordained in historic Christ Church in Alexandria of which Washington was a vestryman. He became rector of Trinity Church, Lenox, Mass., in 1855 and from that time until his death his ministerial work was in the Massachusetts Diocese. Before coming to Hanover he was in charge of Parishes at Plymouth and Webster; of the latter parish he was the founder. In 1858 he was one of the Assistant Secretaries of the Diocesan Convention and in 1863 was again elected to that position which, except in 1864 and 1880, he held continuously until in 1884 he succeeded as Secretary the Rev'd Dr. Clinch who had held that office for 36 years and on account of declining health was obliged to refuse a re-election. His election was unanimous and he held the position until his death. He was, as well, Private Secretary to Bishop Brooks and Bishop Lawrence. In "The Church Militant" March 1900, Bishop Lawrence in a tribute to Dr. Brooks writes:

"It was, however, as an officer of the Diocesan Convention that Dr. Brooks became known to the clergy and laity of Massachusetts. To this work he gave the best of his life and thought.

"The great majority of the present members of the Diocesan Convention have known no other Secretary. His voice, genial manner and prompt work have become identified with the Convention. The keeping of good records was to him a high duty. His conscience went into the smallest item.

"It is rarely that one meets a man so interested in the details of a routine office, so anxious to have exact and formal records, who at the same time preserves such warmth and heartiness of manner, such good comradeship and sense of humor as did Dr. Brooks. One cannot reckon how much of the courtesy which has graced our Diocesan Conventions has been due to the gracious and fine temper of the Secretary.

"Perhaps the happiest work of his life was as Private Secretary to Bishop Brooks, for he there could revel in records and at the same time be in close and confidential relations with one for whom he felt a deep affection tempered with awe.

"As such a man passes, his records will look to another generation cold and formal, but to us who have known him there will always hang about them the memory of the warmth of geniality and the spirit of sweet charity that characterized Dr. Brooks.

The pastorate of Dr. Brooks continued for 16 years. He was esteemed and respected by the community and ever active in the promotion of its welfare and advancement. In 1889, without the slightest canvass by himself and almost without his knowledge until the movement was well beyond its preliminary stage, he was nominated and elected as the representative to the General Court from the 5th Plymouth District, including Rockland as well as Hanover. He was the first and only Episcopal clergyman ever in the Massachusetts Legislature and was House Chairman of the Committee on Parishes and Religious Societies and a member of the Committee on Woman Suffrage. The "Southern Churchman" said of him "Secretary Brooks is one of the few clergymen who can go gracefully into politics and keep from injury. He served with ability and won the respect of his associates of both political parties."

Dr. Brooks was a Southerner by birth and by family connections, but a Union man always. He suggested the Soldiers' Monument at Hanover and its erection is due in a large measure to his efforts.

Impaired health constrained him to resign his charge at St. Andrew's, and at a farewell reception the whole town attended. A purse of more than $1000 was presented to him to which almost every man, woman and child in the place contributed.

Shortly before his death he published "Sketch of Phillips Brooks in his character as Bishop." It is, perhaps, the most intimate sketch of the late Bishop which has appeared.

Dr. Brooks died at Boston Feb'y 21, 1900. Funeral services were held on Feb'y 22, 1900, in the church of St. John the

Dr. Brooks was survived by his widow and a son, William Gray Brooks, a member of the Suffolk Bar, and at the time of writing a student in the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania.

The Reverend Frank Somerville Harraden succeeded to the Rectorate on May 1. 1889.

Mr. Harraden is a native of Concord, N. H., and graduated at Trinity College, Hartford, in 1867. He received the degree of M. A. in 1870. From 1867 to 1874 he was Head Master of Ury House School for boys at Philadelphia and was ordained to the Diaconate in 1872 by Bishop Niles of New Hampshire and to the Priesthood in 1876. He became Rector of Trinity church, Tilton, N. H., where he remained two years. In 1878 and 1879 he was Rector of St. John's church in East Boston. Subsequently, until 1881, he was connected with the Episcopal City Mission in Boston, and from that time until his call to St. Andrew's he ministered to the Parishes of St. John's at Framingham and St. Paul's at Natick in the Diocese of Massachusetts.

Under the worthy successor of so many earnest and faithful ministers the prosperity of the parish has continued to increase.

Linking the past and the present, may St. Andrew's retain undiminished its influence as a beneficent and uplifting force in the community for many years to come.

AFTER THE FIRST CHAPTERS HAD GONE TO PRESS.

THE following references to the Church which appear in other works, although they do not afford material for a consecutive narrative, present interesting facts as to parts of its earlier history as well as information concerning some of the rectors and can appropriately appear with the published records.

Deane, in the History of Scituate, records that the invitation to Rev. Dr. Timothy Cutler was extended by Lieutenant Damon, whose relations with the Reverend Mr. Bourn, of the North Meeting House where the service was held, were not harmonious, and that possession of the Meeting House for that purpose was taken without the consent of the proper authority. (History of Scituate by Samuel Deane, Boston, 1831 p. 35.)

Criticism and opposition were provoked, and an account of the service in the "Boston Gazette," referring to the number and respectability of the audience, drew forth a statement by a Scituate gentleman to the "Boston News Letter" denying that any of the principal inhabitants of the town had invited the Doctor, and declaring "that only three men of Scituate, a number of disappointed men from neighboring towns, and about forty school boys were present."

Dr. Cutler, always firm and zealous in asserting and maintaining the dignity of his church, addressed to the Council, a memorial (See Council Records, September 2. 1725) complaining of a notice in No. 1170 of the News Letter, "published by authority," which in this connection remarked sarcastically, "However by the way this shows the Doctor's fervent zeal and indefatigable pains to make proselytes to ye cause, and promote ceremonies by destroying substantials in religion." He therefore prayed that "Such reparation may be made to the character and protection afforded by the Church of England in this, as well as in all other instances." The paper, in consequence, received a rebuke from the Governor and Council on the ground that its action was presumptuous and meddlesome, and it was required to discontinue the words "Published by Authority" from its heading. (Annals of King's Chapel Vol. I p. 34) *

For a time there appears to have been some doubt of the support of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts. Assurance of assistance was essential to the existence of the church and delay was disheartening and discouraging.

Dr. Cutler wrote to Dr. Gray November 8, 1734 (see Church Docs. Mass. p. 673) "Mr. Davenport is just returned, and brings us the sad news of the uncertainty of the Society's countenancing any new missions. When this takes air it will give a sad damp to the Church among us."

However, in the "abstract" annexed to the sermon preached by Dr. Maddox before the Society in 1733 there is the following announcement: "The Society have this year very much increased the number of their missions upon the earnest petitions of the principal inhabitants of each place, representing . . . the . . . rising generation as never having seen, nay scarce heard, anything of the publick worship of God, and the administration of the sacraments. . . . The Society have therefore sent the Rev. Mr. Davenport to Scituate, in New England," "where" remarks the historian of King's Chapel, "for a century there had been an uninterrupted succession of faithful ministers, and were then two Congregational Churches, each with a worthy pastor." (Annals of King's Chapel Vol. I, page 472.)

The first Rector of the Church, naturally, will always remain an interesting figure in its history, and the plan of the present chapter affords an opportunity to extend the sketch of Mr.

* Annals of King's Chapel by Henry Wilder Foote; in two volumes; Boston, 1882.

Davenport contained in the address of the Rev'd Dr. Brooks by the addition of the material which has been secured since the opening chapter of these records was printed.

The Reverend Addington Davenport graduated at Harvard 1719, and had grown up in the Brattle Square Church. He was a grandson of Eleazer Davenport, mariner and sea captain, who married Rebecca, daughter of Mr. Isaac Addington (admitted member of First Church, Boston 13th day of 4th month, 1640; married Anne Leverett) She was a sister of the Hon. Isaac Addington, clerk of the Council of Safety after Andros' overthrow in April, 1689; Secretary of the Province from June 1690 until his death; Judge of the Court of Common Pleas; Chief Justice of the Superior Court, and Judge of the Probate Court of Suffolk. He died March 19, 1714-15 Aet. 70 years, 1 month, 27 days.

"Their son, Addington Davenport, born Aug. 3, 1670 graduated from Harvard College in 1689, after which he travelled extensively and returned to Boston and was Register of Deeds for the County of Suffolk. Afterwards he sustained some of the most responsible offices in the Government: was Clerk of the House of Representatives, of the Supreme Court and Court of Common Pleas; a member of the Council, and in 1715 was appointed a Judge of the Supreme Judicial Court, which office he held untill his death. He was one of the "undertakers" of Brattle Street Church. He married in November, 1698, Elizabeth Wainwright, daughter of John Wainwright of Ipswich, and Elizabeth Norton, his wife. He died April 2, 1736. By his will he gives upon the decease of his wife, "two fourth parts, or a double portion" of his Real Estate in Boston to his "son, Addington Davenport, his Heirs and Assigns forever." (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg. 4. 111.) Sewall records:

"Oct. 13, 1729, Judge Davenport comes to me and speaks to me on behalf of Mr. Addington Davenport, his eldest son, that he might have liberty to wait upon Jane Hirst" (daughter of Judge Sewall's daughter Elizabeth) "now at my house in way of courtship. He told me he would deal by him as his eldest son, and more than so. Intended to build a house where his uncle Addington dwelt, for him; and that he should have his Pue in the Old Meeting House."

He married (1) Dec. 23, 1729 (by Rev. Joseph Sewall) Jane, fourth daughter of Grove Hirst, merchant, of Boston. She died before 1738, and he married (2) May 9, 1738 Anne, daughter of Benjamin Faneuil, deceased. She was a sister of Peter Faneuil, and died Nov. 15, 1744. He died Sept. 8, 1746.

The register of King's Chapel contains the following: "1738-May 9-Addington Davenport and Anne Faneuil." (Annals of King's Chapel I, p. 523.)

The Christ Church Register of Baptism contains the following: "1733, July 8, Jane, daughter to the Reverend Mr. Addington Davenport and Jane his wife."

His will, made Feb. 1, 1744-45 when he was "bound to sea" contains the following clauses:

"First and principally, I commend my soul to God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, humbly beseeching him to pardon all my Sins and prepare me for his Heavenly Kingdom, and my body to the Earth or Seas as it shall please Almighty God, in a firm faith of its future Resurrection by the power of my blessed Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

He bequeaths to his daughters "Jane and Elizabeth" £2500 apiece to be taken out of the Bank of England, if they see cause when they arrive at the age of twenty-four years, severally."

All the residue of his Estate, Real and Personal, he bequeaths to his "Only son Addington Davenport and his heirs forever." He appoints his "worthy friend" William Price, Cabinet Maker, one of his daughters' guardians. His son Addington, "Merchant," died at Portsmouth, Feb. 24, 1761 in his 29th year. He perhaps went there to live on account of the neighborhood of his aunt, Lady Mary Pepperell, who resided in Kittery. His father's library was bequeathed to him, and was probably sold in Portsmouth, as many books with his autograph were procured there, and are now in the library of the late Rev. Charles Burroughs, D. D. With him the family name became extinct in his branch of it. Fuller particulars of the family are given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg. 4-111-116. The will of the last Addington Davenport is given in N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg. 4-351. The inventory is such as would belong to a wealthy person. Among the articles are, "2 dozen Silver Handled Knives and Forks and Case, 1 Organ, 1 Negro Boy." (Annals of King's Chapel, Vol. 1, 481 and 482.

Mr. Davenport was also a cousin of the Rev. Samuel Cooper, Dr. Chauncy says, "Mr. Davenport, who married my first wife's sister, declared for the Church and went over for Orders upon this pretence,—“That it was a certain fact that Episcopacy, in the appointed sense, was the form of government in the Church from the time of the Apostles, and down along through all successive ages.” (See Sketch of Eminent Men of New England in Mass. Hist. Coll. 10-161.)

Samuel Sewall Jr. wrote in his interleaved almanac, (N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg. 16, 71,) "1730, Nov. 25th, Couz. Addington Davenport Goe on Board Capt. Shepherdson To Sale for England. On the 12th instant I hear he partook at the Church of England in Dr. Cutler's Church and on the 19th He and his wife went to Church there. It is said he goes to take Orders to be a Church of England Parson."

Among the records of King's Chapel, Boston, is the following:—

Oct. 11, 1733. Voted. that the Brass Stand for the hour glass be lent to the Church of Scituate, as also three Diaper Napkins, provided the Reverend Addington Davenport, their minister, gives his note to Return the same to the Church wardens of this Church for the time being, whensoever this Church shall see meet to demand them. (Annals of King's Chapel, Vol. 1, Page 422.)

In the first chapter allusion has been made to the fact that the ministrations of the Reverend Charles Brockwell, the second rector, were not acceptable to the parishioners of the church. They expressed their emotions in a petition to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel on January 22, 1738 as follows :

"So it is for upwards of these four months past the Rev'd Mr. Brakwell our Minister, without the least previous intimation to us or provocation from us hath removed to Salem and left us desolate so that our holy Church is now become the scorn and sport of our dissenting neighbors.

"We have in high estimation the ministerial character and we ever honor'd Mr. Brakwell as the gift of the Society to our Infant Church; and as he has given us the most solemn assurances that he will never in the least by any representation expose us to the loss of the Society's favor (the greatest temporal evil that can befall us), so we shall continue to treat him with all tenderness and respect; and are therefore silent on this or any other part of his conduct however surprising and grievous to us." (See Church Doc. Mass. pa. 320.)

Mr. Commissary Price also wrote to the Secretary

Nov. 16, 1738.

"Mr. Brockwell has made many grievous complaints of the hardships and rude treatment he has met with from this congregation at Scituate which I believe are not without some foundation. His complaint backed with a letter from the Church Wardens of Scituate, declaring that they would rather lose the Mission than Mr. Brockwell should be their minister, were laid before the clergy at their annual meeting where it was unanimously allowed that upon the account of Mr. Brockwell's bad state of health and ill temper of his people he might be more serviceable in the duties of his profession at Salem till the Society's pleasure should be further known."

The letter from the Church Wardens to which the Commissary refers is as follows (See Church Docs. Mass. pp. 322-327):

"To the reuerd clargies of the episcopal order which do dwell at Boston or at braintree: reuerd Sirs, the great consernt we are in will not permit us to daylays any longer to aquoint you that our unhapy division cause as it were a consumption of our unfortunate Church which dothe waste much to the satisfaction of our adversaries that are round about us; which confusion we are in can not but be to the dishonour of God and to our profession, and to the discomfort of those which would with all callmness of mind to bear the cross of the difculty we meet with, which some of us do calles it an entolairable yoke, saying that they would rather loose the mission then reuerd Mr. Brakwel should abide with us. We which are greatly consernt of this great disorder cannot but be sensible that it will continue so long as the said reuerd Mr. brakwel remain with us ; but we are full persuaded that his reamoval from us would mouch contribute to the glory of God among us and to the restoration of the flourishing and prosperity of this church as 'it was not long sense." (Annals King's Chapel Vol. II pa. 24 and 25.)

The mission at Salem to which Mr. Brockwell was assigned afterward became St. Peter's Church and there he remained until his resignation on November 27, 1746, when, it is probable, he assumed the duties of his position at King's Chapel.

Mr. Brockwell was born in England and his early labors were probably in that country and doubtless accompanied by hard conditions which may have developed the characteristics which interfered with his influence at Scituate, and later provoked a prolonged controversy as to the respective rights and privileges of the Rector and himself under the terms of his commission as assistant minister at King's Chapel.

The records of the Chapel contain a full account of this controversy and it appears that Mr. Brockwell maintained his contention with spirit and determination but in the end was obliged to yield.

Disappointment and misfortune seem to have followed him. He wrote to the Bishop of London. (See Church Docs. Mass. p. 441.)

I have a poor wife violently afflicted with the rheumatism and both lying under the disorders consequent to advancing years and she desirous of returning home from the gloomy prospect that presents should she survive—poverty and age in a strange land; in England she has some friends to relieve these distresses, but here, alas! she has none. So that in your Lordship's gift any equivalent should offer in any obscure corner of your Diocese, it should be meer charity to bestow it upon a poor unfortunate man, that never coveted riches, nor with all his most diligent application could escape poverty, extreme poverty."

"Amid these forlorn circumstances the King's Lecturer did not flinch from his post in the pulpit when the Rector fled from the small pox terror."

(See annals of King's Chapel, Vol. II p. 107.)

The last mention of Mr. Brockwell in the Records of King's Chapel is the following :

"At a Vestry of King's Chapel held at the House of the Rev^d. Mr. Caner on Wednesday Aug^t. 20th 1755 Call^d on Acc^t of the Death of the Rever^d. Mr. Charles Brockwell who died on said day at 10 a Clock in the Morning—

The Register of Burials records :—

1755, Aug. 22 Rev^d. Charles Brockwell, Preacher Assistant at King's Chapel 59 years. (Annals King's Chapel Vol. II p. 34.)

Mr. Brockwell was interested in other things outside his church. He was an ardent Freemason. A visitor to Boston Oct. 10, 1750 "went to Mr. Stones, where Lodge was held and Parson Brockwell Presided in the Chair." (See Capt. F. Goelet's visit to America in 1746-50 N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg. XXIV. 55) (Annals King's Chapel, Vol. II p. 33.)

The only Sermon published by him is one addressed to that Fraternity, recommending "Brotherly Love" in which he says

"Whoever is an Upright Mason can neither be an Atheist, Deist or Libertine. . . . I have had the Honour of being a member of this Ancient and Honourable Society many years, have sustained many of its offices and can and do aver, in this sacred place and before the Grand ARCHITECT of the World, that I never could observe aught therein but what was justifiable and commendable according to the strictest rules of society."

The full title is "Brotherly Love Recommended in a SERMON Preached before the Ancient and Honourable Society of Free and Accepted MASONS in CHRIST Church BOSTON, on Wednesday the 27th of December 1749. From the following extract from the Records of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts for the year 1743 it may be inferred that the Church had been without the stated ministrations of a clergyman since the departure of Mr. Brockwell. "The Society hath ventured further to reestablish a mission at Scituate upon the representation and earnest request of the inhabitants of Scituate in behalf of themselves and the adjacent towns of Hanover, Pembroke and Marshfield and upon the Rev. Mr. Davenport's (some time since the Society's Missionary there, but now the Minister of Trinity Church, Boston) charitable and generous donation of the house in which he resided there with the outhouses, barn and seven acres of land to the Society for the use of the Minister at Scituate forever and they have appointed to this mission the Rev. Ebenezer Thompson, M. A. educated in the independent way at Yale College in Connecticut, but for some years past very laborious and doing all good offices in his power towards promoting the interests of religion and the advancement of the Church in those parts according to the united testimony of the Missionaries of the Society, after his having passed the proper examination and his having been ordained deacon and priest here in England and Mr. Thompson is by this time settled to good purpose in his mission."

The number of Missionaries and Schoolmasters at this time in New England in the employ of the Society was 21. The grant to Mr. Thompson was £40. The amount paid to all of them for their yearly service was £1120. The whole number of Missionaries and teachers in the different states in the employ of the Society was 66 and the whole amount appropriated was £3160. To each Missionary the Society granted £10 worth of books for a library and £5 worth of small tracts to be distributed among the parishioners.

"The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts" obtained a Royal Charter from William III on June 16, 1701.

The circumstances which called the Society into existence are stated in the Charter to be—"That in many colonies the provisions made for ministers is very mean—That many colonies are wholly destitute of a maintenance for ministers and the public worship of God—That for want of such maintenance many of the King's subjects are without the administration of God's Word and Sacraments and seem to be abandoned to atheism and infidelity." The early Presidents were the successive Archbishops of Canterbury and all the Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland were Vice Presidents. The Corporation is charged to elect into its own body from time to time such persons as are thought "beneficial to its charitable designs."

When the Society was incorporated in 1701 its work was found to consist of three great branches—"the care and instruction of our own people settled in the colonies; the conversion of the Indian natives; the conversion of the Negro slaves."

The first Missionaries of the Society, the Rev'd George Keith and the Rev'd Patrick Gordon sailed from England on the 24th of April 1702 and landed at Boston on June 11. Up to 1783 the American colonies which at that time separated from England were the principal fields of the Society's labors. The support of the Society was then withdrawn but the seed sown sprang up and bore good fruit.

Its operations were afterwards carried on among the colonists and heathen in British North America, the West Indies, Africa, Asia and Australasia. The principle of the Society is to assist in forming churches in destitute places not to maintain them permanently anywhere with grants of funds.

The following statement of an interesting fact appears in Mr. Cutler's Anniversary Sermon :

"On the feast of the Epiphany 1755 the Rev. E. Thompson preached in the Court House in Plymouth which was the first time the service of the Church of England was ever performed in Plymouth. The High Sheriff of the County and the Chief Magistrate with about three hundred others were present."

Among those who temporarily officiated during the vacancy in the rectorship which existed after the resignation of Mr. Goldsmith in 1816 were the Reverend Benjamin Bosworth Smith and the Reverend Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright. Both afterwards became eminent and influential in the councils of the church : the former was the first Bishop of Kentucky and from 1868 until his death, President of the House of Bishops the latter was Provisional Bishop of the Diocese of New York: and also served for many years as Secretary of the House of Bishops. Sketches of these distinguished clergymen are published in Appleton's "Encyclopedia of American Biography" and in view of the circumstances, seem worthy of reproduction in connection with the church records.

Reverend Benjamin Bosworth Smith was born at Bristol, R. I., June 13, 1794 and died in New York City, May 31, 1884. He was graduated at Brown University in 1816 and although of Congregational parentage he studied for the ministry of the Episcopal Church. He was ordained deacon in St. Michael's Church, Bristol, R. I., April 23, 1817 by Bishop Griswold and priest in St. Michael's Church, Marblehead, on June 24, 1818 by the same bishop. His earliest work was in Marblehead for two years after which he became rector of St. George's Church, Accomack County, Va., and two years later rector of Zion Church of Charlestown (now W. Va.) with charge of the church in Shepherdstown. In 1823 he removed to Vermont and became rector of St. Stephen's Church, Middlebury; in 1828 he assumed charge of Grace Church Mission in Philadelphia and in 1830 accepted the rectorship of Christ Church, Lexington, Ky., which he held until 1837. While in Vermont he was editor of "The Episcopal Register" and subsequently in Philadelphia conducted "The Episcopal Recorder." In 1833 he received the degree of S. T. D. from Geneva (now Hobart) College and that of L. L. D. from Griswold College, Iowa, in 1870 and from Brown University in 1872. He was elected first Bishop of Kentucky and was consecrated in St. Paul's Chapel, New York City, Oct. 31, 1832. On the death of Bishop Hopkins in 1868 he became Presiding Bishop. From 1872 owing to infirmities due to advanced age he was allowed to reside out of the limits of his diocese and in January 1875 was furnished with an assistant. In addition to his contributions as editor to church journalism Bishop Smith published "Five Charges to the Clergy" of his Diocese: "Saturday Evening—or Thoughts on the Progress of the Plan of Salvation" (New York 1876) and "Apostolic Succession: Facts Which Prove that a Ministry Appointed by Christ Himself Involves this Position." (1884.)

Reverend Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright was born at Liverpool, Eng., February 24, 1793 and died at New York City September 21, 1854. He was of American parentage his mother being a daughter of Reverend Jonathan Mayhew of Boston. He was graduated at Harvard College in 1812 and for a time was a tutor there. He was ordained deacon in the Protestant Episcopal Church at Trinity Church, Boston, on April 13, 1817 and ordained priest at Christ Church, Hartford, Conn., on May 29, 1818 and became rector of the latter church. In November 1819 he removed to New York and became Assistant Minister in Trinity Church. He was made rector of Grace Church in 1821 and remained in that charge until 1834 when he became rector of Trinity Church, Boston. In 1837 he returned to Trinity Parish, New York, as assistant in charge of St. John's Chapel which post he retained until he was elevated to the Episcopate. He received the degree of D. D. from Union College in 1823 and from Harvard in 1835. The degree of D. C. L. was conferred upon him by the University of Oxford, Eng. in 1852. He was consecrated Provisional Bishop of New York in Trinity Church, New York. on November 10, 1852. He was for many years Secretary of the House of Bishops. He aided in the establishment of the University of New York and was considered one of the first pulpit orators of his day. He wielded great social influence, was a ripe scholar and a devoted lover of music, contributing towards its improvement in the churches of his denomination. He was Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the General Theological Seminary in 1828-1834, and a trustee or officer in many other institutions and societies. In 1844 he engaged in a controversy with his friend the Rev. Dr. George Potts which grew out of an assertion that Rufus Choate had made at a celebration of the New England Society. The orator said that the Pilgrim Fathers had founded "a State without a King and a Church without a Bishop." At the dinner that followed Dr. Wainwright in responding to a sentiment said in reply "There is no Church without a Bishop." The subsequent discussion with Dr. Potts which was carried on in 19 letters to the New York Commercial Advertiser was afterward, in 1844, published in pamphlet form. His other works include "Four Sermons on Religious Education" (1829). "Lessons on the Church" (1835). "Order of Family Prayer" (1845). "Short Family Prayers" (1856). "The Pathway and Abiding Places of our Lord illustrated in the Journal of a Tour through the Land of Promise" (1851). "The Land of Bondage: being the Journal of a Tour in Egypt" (1852), and many single sermons and papers in periodicals. He also prepared three books of Music: "A Book of Chants adapted to Service in the Episcopal Church" (1819) "Music of the Church" (1828) and "The Choir and Family Psalter" in connection with the Rev. Dr. William A. Muhlenberg (1851). He edited "Bishop Ravencroft's Sermons with a Memoir" 2 Vols. (1830) and "Life of Bishop Heber by his Widow" 2 Vols. (1830).

A memorial volume containing thirty-four of his sermons and a Memoir by Bishop Doane (1856) and "Life of Bishop Wainwright" by Reverend John N. Norton (1858) were published after his death and a church in his memory was erected in New York City.

His son Jonathan Mayhew, born in New York City July 27, 1821, was a naval officer of distinction and was killed in action at Galveston, Texas, January 1, 1863.

His grandson Jonathan Mayhew, son of the second Jonathan Mayhew, born January 29, 1849, graduated at the United States Naval Academy and was killed June 19, 1870 while in command of a boat expedition against filibusters on the coast of Mexico.

The second Jonathan's daughter, Marie, Mrs. Louis James, attained reputation as an actress.

The sketch of the church is concluded. While an outline only is presented, it is the result of diligent inquiry and research during many years, for the sources of information were few and the material was not abundant. The first object of the book is the permanent preservation of the existing records, but it is confidently felt that its other features will prove useful and reliable, and the writer expresses the hope that those portions of the records which do not appear may yet be discovered and incorporated in a future history of the town.
